"Moving beyond the logic of counting means refusing to look at border deaths from the standpoint of this governmental gaze – migration agencies or states – and taking into account what border deaths are for the friends and the relatives of the missing migrants. [...] Rather than producing a more exact border deaths population database, it is a question of bringing into visibility the reality of what the visa regime and the European mechanisms of border control generate: the 'disappearance' of women and men who die without being detected but who are counted as 'missing' in the countries of origin or of transit by those who know them." (Tazzioli 2015:
